Check your THERS account online

機構アカウントのオンライン照会について
(日本語版は裏面にあります。)

From March 28 (Saturday), at 10:00 a.m., your THERS account can be found online. THERS account is needed for authentication purposes to access the information services provided by Nagoya University after enrollment, so please check your THERS account, then check your Nagoya University ID (NU ID) as well.

*If you already have a THERS account and NU ID (e.g. if you continued on from a Nagoya University undergraduate school to graduate school), you can continue to use your current THERS account and NU ID. You do not need to complete the procedure [★How to check your THERS account] below. Only "Annual Information Security Training" is required (see link below); please complete "Annual Information Security Training" as soon as possible after Saturday, March 28.

Course Registration Procedures

Upon admission to Nagoya University Graduate School of Medicine, you are required to draw up a course registration plan and decide on a research theme under the guidance of your academic advisor. Fill in the attached Study Plan and submit it to the Student Affairs Office.

1. Categories of subjects offered by the Graduate School of Medicine
(1) The categories and outlines of the subjects are as shown in the following table.

Category	Outline
Core subjects	You should select core subjects from seminars and experimental research courses offered by your division. You must also take some of the distinctive educational programs related to your area of specialization. Through these core subjects, you are expected to develop the ability to carry out research in the area of your intended specialty and to become a researcher or leading medical professional with a creative attitude.
Minor subjects	Choose and register for courses from the seminar and practical research offered in all fields. To earn credits, you must pass examinations held in accordance with the number of hours studied. The minor subjects cover topics that are related to the core subjects. Through these subjects, you are expected to gain advanced expertise and develop the ability to conduct research in your own creative way.
Basic subjects	These subjects form a common program with the aim of imparting to broad a basic knowledge as possible to students in one aspect of graduate education. They include Special Lectures (TORIKUBO) and Basic Science Practice (Basic Training).

(2) Courses in these subjects are shown in the separate sheets.
(3) The sheets can be downloaded from the QR code on the right.

2. Number of credits required to complete the doctoral course at the Graduate School of Medicine (or to withdraw from the doctoral course with the completion of course requirements)

- ① Core subjects: 16 credits, subjects and computer subjects
Seminar: 10 credits
Experimental research course: 6 credits
*You must take the distinctive educational programs (TORIKUBO) tailored to your own area consisting of a total of four 20-lecture one-credit courses.
- ② Minor subjects: At least 16 credits, subjects and computer subjects
For students taking courses in basic medicine as core subjects, seminars offered by specialized areas other than the specialized one with which you are affiliated are regarded as minor subjects, while for students taking courses in clinical medicine as core subjects, courses in basic medicine or clinical pharmacology are regarded as minor subjects, and for students taking courses in clinical pharmacology, courses in basic medicine or clinical medicine are regarded as minor subjects.

How to Add TOKURON and TOKUPURO calendar

1. On your computer, open Google Calendar.
2. On the left side, next to “Other calendars,” click “+” and “Subscribe to calendar”.
3. In the “Add calendar” box, enter “daigakuinn.tokuron@gmail.com”.
4. Press Enter.
5. their calendar will be added on the left side under "Other calendars."

Attendance Confirmation

---

Please follow the instructions by the Instructor during the online lecture.

Your attendance will be checked through the following ways:

Face-to-face lectures: Please receive a stamp from the instructor or the person in charge of the lecture on your attendance card.

Online lectures: Some of TOKURON and TOKUPRO lectures are held online. e.g. Zoom, Microsoft Teams, etc.

Please follow the guidance of the instructor or the person in charge of the lecture. Usually, they will ask you to answer some online forms to check your attendance. Once you attend a lecture, please mark “Online” on your attendance card and fill in the date of the lecture.

If we find students fill in the online forms without attending a lecture, all attendance of TOKUPRO in the academic year will be cancelled.

Other rules for attending online lectures, please refer to the website.
